time melodies which are suited to his instrument and he has himself written many beautiful things along the lines of Old French and Russian folk songs.

Critics go into ecstasies over his work both as a composer and as an instrumentalist. W. H. Breare says of him "This man stands by himself on the lone, giddy heights of perfect achievement." And no less a person than Henri Dutilleul, writing in the Paris Figaro, says: "Old melodies and themes seem to be asleep in the depths of the tympanon, only to be wakened to the artist's touch, beating and throbbing upon the instru-ment's strings with a poignant and tragic note such as they never before had, because they are like reminders in these troubled and stirring days, regrets for the passing of beauty, simplicity, and sincerity in all the arts."

M. Votichenko's studio, established first in London and now in New York —at the Hotel des Artistes—in a museum, a picture gallery, a history.
Its span covers parts of five centuries. He has a collection of rare and magnificent examples of ancient Russian art objects, of signed portraits of crowned heads—and some heads which have been suddenly uncrowned, for instance all the ill-fated Russian royalties—of portraits, letters, and rare and interesting documents, that is seldom equalled.
His album of celebrities contains letters of kings and queens, of the great in every walk of life. Bits of brocade, lace, cloth of gold, and rare fabrics associated with people now famous. Portraits, medallions, decorations, drawings, and autographs of men and women who have made and are making history. Notable among these great names are those of famous musicians—Orlando, Delassus, Couperin, Mozart, Beethoven, Grieg.

Letters and Documents
From Early Monarchs.
In addition to all this, his collection includes letters and documents from the early kings of France and Poland, with curious pictures; letters from King Stanislas of Poland to his daughter, Marie Leszczynska, Queen of France; letters from Napoleon, the First and Napoleon the Third; fragments from the correspondence of Louis XV and Mme. Dubarry; relics of St. Ignatius Loyola; souvenirs of Jean Baptiste Lully, often called the father of French music, and a host of other valuable and interesting documents, such as the cover of a piece of music dedicated to the King of France, and souvenirs of the reception of the ambassadors of the Ottoman Empire at Versailles in the days of the great Louis. And the whole is housed in a splendid studio where barbaric magnificence is tempered by perfect taste.

The artist's studio concerns intimates at the Hotel des Artistes are famous concerts of the personal and spontaneous kind in which the hearers are almost as important as the performers and the conventional gulf between the stage and the auditorium is bridged by a community of interest and effort. And it is something of this sort that M. Votichenko is seeking to introduce here, and in this Washington, where he has been asked—by invitation only, he it known—to take an interest.

Southern Relief Ball Will Be Notable

With the opening days of February will come another group of important balls and benefits, beginning with the Southern Relief Ball on Monday evening, February 2, and including the spectacular ball and pageant of American history to be given at the New Willard on the evening of February 12 in connection with the convention of the Navy League.

There are to be nearly 600 people in the "cast" and the bill gives promise of being one of the most picturesque and colorful events of the year.
The ladies who are getting up the Southern Relief Ball are particularly anxious that it shall be a success this year for the Southern Relief Home, 2403 Pennsylvania Avenue, which is maintained by the proceeds of the annual entertainment, has been sold over the heads of the old folk who are cared for there.

The society's dream is to own its permanent home and it is hoped that the proceeds of the ball this year will provide the nucleus of a fund for its purchase.

The society was founded thirty-five years ago by the wife of General Harry Heth, the man who fired the first shot at Gettysburg. The first funds for the society were made by the Southern Ladies serving twenty-five cent lunches consisting of such dainties as turkey, chicken salad, Lynnhaven oysters, celery, cranberry sauce, mince pie, sweet potatoes, cake and ice cream. Of course these were all donated, as was occasionally a Virginia ham, even in those days of low cost of living, the society would have come out in debt.

Among the out-of-town purchasers of boxes for the ball are Mrs. Thomas P. Ryan, of New York; Mrs. George de Banville, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury.

The "at homes," which have been so frequent during January—a revival of a custom which was neglected during the war—will also continue during February and new hostesses are continually being added to the list of those who are receiving once a week until Lent or are giving.

FINANCIAL

ing two or three more formal receptions during the season.
For example, the Congressional Hall will be at home informally on the first and third Mondays in February. These teas will take the place of the big reception the ladies used to give in ante-bellum days, when there would be seventy-five in line, with Cabinet ladies presiding at the tea table, the Marine Band playing and a well-filled punch bowl adding stimulation to one of the most brilliant official functions of the season.
This year there are forty-nine ladies at Congress Hall, who will receive together—and give women of official society, with a host of calls to pay, cause to rise up and call them blessed.

Littleton Purchase Oak Hill Estate

The news that Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Littleton, of New York, have purchased the beautiful estate of Oak Hill, near Leesburg, Va., is of considerable interest to us in Washington. For it means that there'll be one more wealthy and up-and-coming family added to the little group—the William Corcoran Estates, the Henry T. Corcoran, the Billy Hitts, the John Buchanans, all Washingtonians originally, and others, who have splendid places in the picturesque Piedmont section of Virginia within reach of the famous Orange Hunt country.
Oak Hill is the old home of President James Monroe, and it's pleasant to know that it is to be completely restored and fitted up throughout with lovely things of the Monroe period, many of them authentic antiques. There are 1,500 acres in the place, and all in a high state of cultivation.

Mr. Littleton is a Virginian by birth, comes, indeed from "up Leesburg way."
And after making his fortune in New York he's going back home to spend it—on the principal, I suppose, of the Irishman, who "came to America to get money enough to go home."

Norte Dame Alumnae Will Give Dance

Plans for the dance to be given by the Notre Dame Alumnae at 2400 Sixteenth street, on Tuesday evening, January 27, are almost completed.
The officers of the Alumnae, Miss Josephine Sheehan, president; Miss Margaret Fennell, vice president; Miss Mildred Garner, recording secretary; Miss Hortense McGowan, treasurer; together with the committee, Mrs. Andrew Morris, Miss Marie trude Lane, Miss Laura Cain and Miss dance to be one of the most successful ones ever held by the association.

The program list is not as yet completed, but will be announced in the near future.

The opening performance of Lionel Barrymore's new play, "The Letter of the Law," at the Shubert-Garrick theater the night of February 2—Monday—will be for the benefit of the Georgetown University Hospital. The play will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Board of the hospital, the officers of which are Mrs. Isaac Gans, president; Mrs. J. Eakin Gadsby, honorary president; Mrs. George Tully Vaughan, Mrs. D. J. Callahan, Mrs. Milton E. Allen, Mrs. Wilfred M.
J. Conry, Mrs. A. E. Murphy and Miss Mary E. Kellher, vice presidents; Mrs.
Henry R. Gower, recording secretary; Mrs. Andrew J. McIntyre, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. M. J. Ready, treasurer.

Assisting Mrs. Gans on the Ticket Committee, of which she is chairman, are Mrs. Wilfred M. Barton, Mrs.
Michael J. Ready, Mrs. Andrew J. Mc-Intyre, Mrs. John Haas, Miss Mary E.
Kellher and Mrs. M. E. Donahoe. The Committee on Boxes, Mrs. George Tully Vaughan, chairman, includes Mrs.
D. J. Callahan, Mrs. J. H. Covington and Mrs. Edwin E. Behrens. The Flower Committee, Mrs. Andrew J.
McIntyre, chairman, has as members Miss Mary E. Kellher, Mrs. Wilfred M. Barton and Mrs. Francis Dickens.
Mrs. Nellie E. Fealy heads the committee on publicity.

The attention of the board, which during the past two or three years has been devoted mainly to the endowment of a charity ward, is now being turned toward the nurses' home, the project largely represents the early activities of the board, being inadequate for the constantly increasing needs of the hospital.

Trinity College Alumnae Association vited to meet at the Red Cross nurses of Washington at a reception to be held in their honor at the District chapter of American Red Cross, 16 Jackson place northwest, tomorrow night, January 19.

As the majority of these nurses have served overseas and as it will be their first reunion under the auspices of the Red Cross since their return from abroad, the event gives every promise of being a memorable one. The reception will be held from 8 until 10 o'clock, the officers of the executive committee and the chapters forming the reception committee.

Mrs. Cabot Stevens entertained at luncheon on Thursday for the heads of Washington clubs and societies, to confer about the nationwide movement to adopt Armenian and Syrian orphans and rescue and protect Christian and Jewish girls now in harem of Turks and Arabs. Miss Mabel Boardman gave an earnest plea for support of the cause. Miss Mary O'Toole, who announced an illustrated lecture January 28 at the Women's City Club by Dr. Lincoln Witt, for the benefit of Near East Relief, Mrs.
Charles L. Richardson invited Mrs.
Stevens to address the Mary Wash-
